SEEKING COMPROMISE

Bramuglia led French journalist

Pertinax, writing in the Paris newspaper France-Soir, said that the French and British have agreed with the Soviets on a currency policy based on the Four-Power decision reached in Moscow Aug. 30. This provided that a pact making the Soviet currency the sole legal tender of Berlin be worked out by the four military governors.

Washington, Pertinax said, refused to go along with the British and French. He speculated that Bramuglia will not have to begin work on a new compromise formula which would satisfy the U.S. The Argentine foreign minister was reliably reported hopeful that a settlement satisfactory to both East and West can still be attained. Sources close to Bramuglia said Sources close to Bramuglia said that after studying the Soviet and Western replies to his currency questionnaire, the Argentine is convinced he is on the track of a solution

Most observers were cautious however. They pointed out that Russia has given no sign of compromising her stand, while the West has repeated its refusal to negotiate the currency question until the blockade if lifted.

THANKSGIVING, 1948

The harvest was in. The Pilgrims, in that November of 1621, knew at last that most of them would survive a second New England winter. If the crops had failed, or if ships from Europe had failed to arrive with help, few would have lived until spring.

ships from Europe had failed to arrive with help, few would have lived until spring.

So the Pilgrims celebrated, not a single day, but a long period of thanksgiving. They invited their Indian neighbors, who came bearing great arrow-pierced wild turkeys. They feasted together, and thanked God with songs and prayers, and unlimbered their work-stiffened sinews in lively games with the Indians. They were lucky, and they knew it.

For more than two centuries thereafter Thanksgiving was not celebrated annually, but only in years of particular peril. There was no fixed date for it, and observance the two sections of the Emerald Isle.

In the Commerce Department report some evidence was found that demand was dropping slightly, since more people were spending only what their incomes allowed, rather than what their desires demanded.

FRANK MR. FORD

Henry Ford II sounded almost like Henry Ford I at Philadelphia the other day when he held a press conference before making an inspection trip to his company's assembly plant at Chester, Pa. Reporters bombarded him with questions and he replied with crisp frankness.

Perhaps he was too frank when he declared that a fourth round of pay increases is "inevitable." That is the kind of thing an employer would be wiser not to say, whatever he thinks, because it is likely to be taken as an invitation to demand higher wages-or jack up a demand already on the way. It may be realism, but it won't help Ford when union leaders drop in to talk over a new con-

But this statement should be considered in its context. Ford didn't stop there. He said that prices, also, must go up-because "there is no place else for them to go." His company is getting better production, but productivity is not good enough to permit lower prices. He added that car prices cannot go down without lowering wages and material costs. If wages go up, therefore, prices will rise

Workers have the power to enforce demands for more pay, but the result will be more inflation. As Ford sees it, any attempt to put controls on car prices would only do harm and labor is "hurting itself" by asking for price controls. The practical effect of a return to controls vould be bad, he says, and it would be a step toward socialism.

Ford had other things to say and put them in blunt words. But union leaders, and their followers, should take his comment on the fourth round to heart. As he said, they can impose it on employers. What they cannot do is escape the economic consequences when they get it.

NEW CASTLE NEWS In View Of News Of The World By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Strong United States support of United Nations membership applications by six small nations raised the question today of whether Anglo-American cooperation in foreign policy may come in for a strain over the status of Eire.

Eire is one of the small countries whose application again is up for consideration in Paris.

The others are Austria, Trans-Jordan, Italy, Finland and Portugal. Previous applications by the six countries were vetoed by the Soviet Union.

Unique and Important

The application by Eire is unique and important. For the Dail Eireann is expected to pass through all its stages shortly the republic of Ireland bill which will divorce the country from the British crown and no workable formula yet has been found to retain Eire in the fabric of the commonwealth.

Indicate the permanence of northern Ireland the permanence of northern Ireland's parliamentary institutions.

"Mr. Costello and his government have with their own hands erected an immovable barrier between north and south."

Desperate efforts were made by the recent annual conference of dominion and commonwealth prime ministers in London to evolve a scheme whereby Eire might conmonwealth membership while declining to acknowledge allegiance to the king.

All of them failed. And resentment promises to mount between now and St. Patrick's day, 1949, when Costello is expected to proclaim establishment of a free and independent republic—a cherished (Continued on Page Seven)

Many a child shamed, scolded and see how the hard-or-hearing child is handicapped at classroom learning, as in spelling or reading and how his poor hearing hampers him in learning to speak a foreign language, or even to speak distinctly in his own language. At home or school, he may speak too high or too low, too loud or too softly and may alip over certain high or too low, too loud or too softly and may slip over certain sounds or parts of words. He may drift into a 'monotone in speech. Certainly, such signs should cause a teacher or parent to have an expert check made on the child's hearing.

How very difficult for the child at two or so to develop good speech if he does not hear well. The first thing a parent should suspect in case a child is retarded in talking some at least is that he may not hear well. (My bulletin, "The Young Child's Speech," may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.)

We parents have chief reaponsibility for preventing and detecting hearing impairment and for guarding against its encroachment. Even in states where hearing tests are conducted in schools, children below eight are not often included in the test program. How very difficult for the child

General Health

Let us work with the physician for good general health in our children and be alert to colds. Head colds are one of the most common source of ear troubles. Earache, running ears or dulled hearing in connection with a cold should have prompt attention of the physician. Indeed, if you observe long violent crying in the infant or young child, you might suspect ear infection, until the physician checks.

Can Find Some Measure Of Thanks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—To most devout Republicans the day of traditional feasting and giving thanks will seem a bleak mockery. The season of mists and mellow fruitfulness can call up for them only a sense of defeat bordering on despair.

Yet without straining too hard to see blessings in disguise, may be even the Republicans can find something to be thankful for now that the memory of the resounding defeat of Nov. 2 is fading. They will seize this opportunity to step out from under the shadow of the past.

In the mood of bewilderment and doubt following the election, many Republicans have turned back to a most interesting document that was ignored at the time. On May 30, 1947, Senator Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut sent a memorandum to Carroll Reece, then chairman of the Republican National Committee. That memorandum began, "I am The government reports leap year did nothing special for marriage...It just seems like 1948 dashed a lot of four-year hopes.

Though it wasn't released to the press, a general staff directive recently ordered that no soldier be accepted unless he had 16 teeth. At the beginning of World War II a soldier had to have 12 teeth. Dental rejections were much too high: About one man out of 1,000 was judged not fit to bite the enemy. The Pentagon version is that President Roosevelt chomped down on this situation. He ruled that the Army should take any soldier with two jaws. Result was that 15,000 Army dentists filled any soldier with two jaws. Result was that 15,000 Army dentists filled any soldier with two jaws. Result was that 15,000 Army dentists filled in million Reason for Bradley's directive is that the Army now has only 750 dentists and will need 2,800 by July 1st. Better teeth means less work for the Dental Corps. Also, several thousand soldiers dodged World War II combat by throwing away their bridge work.

cates in an interesting analysis in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, that they pulled Governor Dewey down to defeat with them.

Putting It Another Way
Or, to put it another way, Paul Douglas, running against Brooks, and Adlai Stevenson, who defeated Green, may take the credit for putting Illinois' 28 electoral votes in the Truman column. Stevenson, who was afraid he could not win against the largest expenditure of slush-fund money in the history of the state, was elected by a plurality of 565,000, getting more votes than any candidate since illinois was admitted to the union.

Douglas won by nearly 500,000.
This compares with President Truman's lead in the state of only about 50,000. And it makes the Tribune's alibit—that Dewey's meto, New Dealism lost the election—sound pretty foolish.

The common sense of the average voter rejected the stale past and we can all be thankful for that. So can the Republicans when they reflect a little on the significance of the outcome.

OUR ACTION SHAMEFUL.

One of the results evidenced in the Peace Treaty following World War I was the creation of a new nation in Europe—Czechoslovakia. In the years transpiring since the establishment of Czechoslovakia, there has been a tremendous resurgence of industries by the people included in that new nation. They established many businesses, which grew rapidly in money making and people employed. Even in the shoe manufacturing business they startled the United States with the speed and efficiency of the men instrumental in the establishing of that enterprise. Czechoslovakia was on the highway of becoming a very well-to-do nation.

But following World War II, there has been a hitch in the peace terms induced by the crazy provision in the organization of the United Nations that Russia was to have an absolute veto on many of the propositions put forth, providing for something approaching a stabilized peace condition in Europe. The Soviets got very busy and Czecheslovakia was one of the minor nations that they over ran, not because there was a large number of Communists in Czechoheartening news to friends liberty is contained in a dis-from Prague which says that Czechoslovakian Communist czechoslovakian Communist government has issued a decree providing for forced labor "education" camps and drastic wage controls. This action, of course, is a confession that production has fallen down under Communism. When government has to resort to slave labor and exercise control over wages the system is seriously lacking in efficiency. Surplus store, West Washington

The firemen who arrived at the scene a few minutes after receiving the call, discovered that a bad fire was centered under a stairway and was eating its way toward the upper floor of the home. Seeing the need of further assistance, a call was put into the Neshannock Volunteer Fire Department with that truck arriving on hand a short while later.

Around $3,000 Damage

An auxiliary pump was taken to the barn near the house and with the assistance of this added water, the fire fighters were able to quell the fire but not before it had caused around $3,000 damage to the dwelling. Contents of the home were somewhat damaged by water. According to Bill Kildoo, North Beaver chief, about 2000 gallons of water were poured on the fire be-Beaver chief, about 2000 gallons of water were poured on the fire before it was brought under control. The house was occupied by a bachelor tenant who worked on the McCombs Dairy farm. No cause for the fire could be ascertained. Its brigin was traced to a clothes pressunderneath the stairway the fire chief reported. Had it not been for the ample supply of water on hand, the ample supply of water on hand, the old home would perhaps have burned to the ground.

THANKSGIVING WAS MADE IN AMERICA

The little company of Pilgrims, pitifully few in a great, uncharted, unfriendly wilderness, came to their first Thanks-giving and knelt in humble gratitude before the food that was barely enough to keep them alive. They had fought for their freedom... they had stood their ground... and won! It was a Thanksgiving made in a new land out of a hard and bitter struggle. As we sit down this year in the comfort and with the abundance that our America has given us . . . let us hold fast to a strength and faith as great as theirs. It is still our own Thanksgiving, made in America, for Americans. LET US NOT FORGET, HUM-BLY, TO GIVE THANKS!

WE HOPE YOU SPEND A VERY PLEASANT THANKSGIVING DAY

Mr. Conn explained the meeting was not the formation of a union, nor was it intended that undue pressure should be used in presenting the request. He explained that it was the feeling of the employes that an increase in salary was necessary at the present time and that the increase, if granted, should be equitable to all. The group named the following employes to present the case to the salary board. Charles D. Ross, A. Lewis Conn, Elmer D. Nesbitt, Miss Jeanette De Carbo and Mrs. Evelyn McKibben. This group will meet with the salary board later. Plans for an employes' party were discussed by the group. Tentatively the date has been set for December 22, with reservations to be in not later than December 15. The place of the party has not yet been arranged.

NOVEMBER TIPS FOR FLOWER GARDENERS

For the pleasure and satisfaction to be derived from doing them, here are some November suggestions for flower gardeners:

Collect a few acorns and plant them in wet moss in a small container. Such acorns will provide an attractive centerpiece for the table during late February.

Plant all bulbous material at once.

Water house plants with water of room temperature. Do not over-water succulent plants. Wash or syringe foliage house plants to remove dust particles.

All newly planted material should be properly and securely labeled.

Provide good surface drainage to carry off water which results from melted snow.

UNDER-FED HEIFERS ARE HARD TO BREED

The feeding program can influence the fertility of dairy heifers if they are small as a result of lack of feed.

The quickest way to help the fertility of these heifers is to feed them good hay and ensilage, plus 4 to 6 pounds of grain daily. Sheep breeders have stepped up their feed on range sheep during the breeding season to improve fertility for many years. The sheep man calls it "flushing" the ewes during the breeding season to im-

LENDING A HAND LIGHTENS
THE LOAD
Children are cheated if they are not helped to express their devotion to their parents. This is illustrated by the example of family gatherings on Thanksgiving Day. No matter how great the when Thanksgiving Day arrives, almost everyone wants to be at home to sit around the festive board. No other spot can quite take the place of home at this special time.

Although Thanksgiving dinner

Although Thanksgiving dinner is the high point in the days activities it is not the only important one. The spirit of friendliness and closer ties of relationship are fed and warmed on this occasion. The family is united in its bonds of devotion to each other and gives thanks for its many blessings. If this spirit of devotion is built on sound foundations, there will be thoughtfulness within the family. Mother will not be left with all the work. There will be helping hands to lighten her load.

Thanksgiving Day offers a special opportunity to mothers and fathers to make an effort to help children express their love a way that shows and counts. When a child's mother and father show understanding and interest in him.

child's mother and father show understanding and interest in him, and show him that his help is important to the family from day to day, then the child feels that he is needed and belongs. He will want to help his parents and understand them better. Helping in the home can be fun for a child.
Having fun with the rest of the family builds closer family ties, ties that are not chains, but sparks of happiness.

WHY NOT TRY THIS?

Children appreciate thoughtfulness on the part of their parents. Such a statement sounds rather queer. We don't stop to think that parents should be particularly thoughtful as far as children are concerned. Too often we take our youngsters for granted.

One of the ways in which thoughtfulness can be concretely shown is in the things we get for youngsters, the little gifts we se-

If you go out of your way to get some wished-for stamps that your sons wants for his growing your sons wants for his growing collection or if you remember to have friends send you a carved animal or two from abroad because you know they will be welcome additions to Susy's growing menagerie, your thoughtfulness will be appreciated almost as much as the stamps or the animals.

Even saving a newspaper clipping of something on jet-propelled planes in which you know Jim is interested is a clear indication to the youngster that you are thinking of him and his interests. And that is something he appreciates above all else.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—(INS) -A nearby Jeannette woman and

Mrs. Alec Samuels, co-chairman, met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William L. Cosel, 215 North Jefferson street, to hear Rev. James A. Gaiser, pastor of the First Methodist church, recently returned from Europe.

In scanning the international field, Mr. Gaiser believes that the greatest threat to world peace exists in China where a state of war has prevailed since 1928. He recommended all-out aid to China to save Asia from going Communistic. An account of his contacts in Belgium, Germany, France and England showed the conflict of thinking between Western Europe and the United States.

Ideals toward which the department will work during the coming year, as outlined briefly by Mrs. Hartman, are: (1) Progressive world organization, (2) Worldwide reduction of armaments by international agreement, (3) Worldwide reduction for peace, (4) Affiliation with organizations working toward peace, e.g. American Friends Service Committee, Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace, and the local chapter of the World Federalists, (5) Resort to prayer.

During the business session Mrs. W. W. Duff was named to the nominating committee of Woman's club. Mrs. Alec Samuels was appointed scrapbook chairman. This book will be compiled with the aim of pointing out the truths of the democratic way of life and when completed will be sent abroad. Through the generosity of those present, a CARE package will be sent to Europe.

A social period followed with tea served from a table prettily decorated in the Thanksgiving motif. Mrs. C. R. Brenner, president of Woman's club, poured.

Next meeting of the department will be in February.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

THE WRITER of any regular column is sure to be on the receiving end of endless strings of letters. Some of them are extremely helpful while others are of little value, writes Seth L. Myers, Northwest Division of the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs who adds: "At the moment we have letters from businessmen in various sections of the Northwest Division. It appears they are disturbed over a resolution passed at the recent convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, in Harrisburg. The resolution urges the state to stop advertising Pennsylvania as a 'Hunter's Paradise'. It points out that at present there is not nearly enough game to go around for the resident hunters. It cautions state officials that to spend money for advertising in out-of-state magazines begging non-residents to come to Pennsylvania for hunting, will result in depletion of the supply on hand. One letter intimates its writer thinks the game commission had a hand in the resolution. This is wrong. The commission takes no part in the federation conventions, other than to have its representatives present. They are always invited guests of the sportsmen. The fish commission and other state departments are also invited.

The bitterness contained in some of the letters may easily be analyzed The bitterness contained in some of the letters may easily be analyzed as narrow minded greediness. These few businessmen care not a whit about the dwindling game supply; they are so blinded with desire for a maximum of business that they cannot see the hand writing on the wall. When the game supply is gone this type of man will find other selfish reasons to plead for those from distant places to come here and buy his wares. Thanks to the Great Creator of our outdoor heritage there are not too many of this calibre of businessman. One letter refers to local 'game hogs' as being the reason that sportsmen from neighboring states become 'game hogs'. This makes me wonder about the fellow who is not satisfied with his local patronage, but wants the hunters from other states to buy from him. I have never heard anything mentioned in any state sportsman convention about visitor-hunters being 'game hogs'. Criticism has never been directed at the good sportsmen who come to Pennsylvania each year. The resolution is intended for those who have overlooked our serious game condition, while pleading for more hunters to come and get it. Unbiased letters are of real value for they give us a good cross-section idea of what our outdoor people are thinking. They give us ideas for study.

"Beat Monongahela" Rally Friday Night Keyes May Miss High Students To Whoop It Up' Big Title Game

Hope History Repeats

All New Castle fandom is hoping that history will repeat itself this year, and Bridle's charges are planning to do just that. However, this Monongahela eleven has played heads up ball all season, and have come through to victory several times when only Coach Haldy and his boys believed in their chances of victory.

Washington is the only common opponent of both teams and very little can be deducted by comparing those scores. Monongahela defeated Hank Day's eleven 25 to 7 and the Canes did it 27 to 0. This gives the local lads a slight edge but proves definitely only one thing, it should be a close ball game.
